

STOCKS CUT WITH THE TRADING BRISK

Reading and Amalgamated Copper, the Conspicuous Issues in the Market, Hold Gains, While Other Leaders Lose.

STEEL AND ST. PAUL SOLID.

Metropolitan Securities and Street Railway Decline as Brooklyn Rapid Transit and Manhattan Hold Advances—Industrials and Erie Fall.

Stocks closed generally lower to-day after a mixed session with trading active, but volume reduced. London houses were active traders, they getting a liberal amount of business, almost all on the buying side.

Reading and Amalgamated Copper were the most conspicuous issues of the day, the latter establishing a new high record for the movement, the price going to $14.40 over a point gain. It reacted fractionally during the afternoon.

The account which bought the stock seemed to have gone short at various times, covering soon after at a loss.

Reading on notable buying advanced 1/2 per cent. to 70 1/2.

The dealers in specialties had large amounts for sale and Philadelphia Steel and preferred continued weak throughout the day, each suffering a fractional decline.

St. Paul was reactionary and finished a loss. The rest of the railroads generally showed slight losses. A movement in Brooklyn Rapid Transit advanced the price 1/4 per cent., but a reaction occurred and it bid only a fractional advance. Metropolitan Securities and Street Railway each lost more than 1/4 per cent., while Manhattan gained 3/4.

Industrial issues were mostly steady. The Erie suffered a loss of from 1/4 to 1/2 per cent.

The feature of the bond market was the absorption of Colorado Midland bonds which still yields over 6 per cent. currently.

The total sales of stocks were 296,100 shares and of bonds $3,650,000.

The closing quotations.

TO DIVERT COTTON TRADE.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—Manchester's fight for a diversion of a portion of Liverpool's cotton trade from America has failed, according to statistics published to-day. In an arrangement with the Liverpool and Manchester cotton traders, the latter have agreed to divert a portion of their cotton trade from America to Manchester.

STEAMSHIP LINES MAY LEAVE CITY

Representative of International Mercantile Co. Declares They Can Get Cheaper Dockage Elsewhere.

It is possible that the withdrawal of the International Mercantile Marine Company of its offer for the Chelsea docks and piers is the first public step in what will be a determined effort to get the city of New York to change its policy in regard to dock properties. This policy has been that the city shall obtain ownership of all dock property along its water lines, shall spend money to improve it and make it a source of revenue to the city.

Against this policy the Mercantile Marine Company will make the argument that with Philadelphia, Boston, Newport News and other Northern and Southern ports not only offering free dockage, but in many cases more substantial inducements to shipping, and with the freight business declining sharply at this port in favor of these ports, the company cannot afford to pay high prices for piers and dockage here and will be compelled to seek ports elsewhere.

One of the high officials of the company said to-day:

"The freight business at the port of New York is declining sharply, and has declined with especial sharpness since we made the offer to the city a year ago. We simply cannot pay high prices for piers and compete with shipping at ports where free dockage is given and where substantial inducements are offered. We think that New York has advantages for sale as a port that would induce us to pay a fair price for our piers, but the price must be below the one asked for the Chelsea piers. Are we satisfied with what we are paying now? I do not care to commit myself as to any figure. I only state it as a broad proposition that this company cannot be expected to pay what we would have to pay."

This representative of the controlling interests in the company declined to state what the company will do in case the city holds to its price, but it was evident from his argument that the company intends to attempt to show the city authorities that it will be to the advantage of the city to give lower dock rentals, and that it is looking at Hoboken and other cities as possible places of location.

WHEAT MARKET STEADY.

September Led in the Trading, Which Was Dull.

Wheat started dull and barely steady to-day except in the Northwest, where it acted rather weak, but soon recovered. September advanced to 115. The opening of corn was firm, notwithstanding the price current estimate of 2,400,000 bushels, getting its support from the cold weather in the West. New York's opening prices were: Wheat—May, 112 1/2; December, 114 1/2.

Chicago's opening prices were: Wheat—May, 111 1/4 to 111 1/8; December, 113 1/4 to 113 1/8. Corn—May, 43 3/4 to 44 1/8; December, 51 1/8 to 51.

New York's closing prices were: Wheat—May, 111 1/4 to 111 1/8; December, 113 1/4 to 113 1/8. Corn—May, 43 3/4 to 44 1/8; December, 51 1/8 to 51.

Chicago's closing prices were: Wheat—October, 107 1/8 to 108 3/8 bid; May, 109 1/4 to 110. Corn—October, 20 1/8 to 20 3/8 bid; May, 47 1/8 to 48 1/8.
